

States with War/ Conflicts

By the end of 2022, the total number of people worldwide forced to flee their homes due to conflict, violence, fear of persecution and human rights abuses was 103 million. This is more than double the 42.7 million people who continued to be forcibly displaced a decade ago and the highest number since World War II. Unresolved regional tensions, a breakdown in the rule of law, absent or co-opted state institutions, illicit economic gain, and the scarcity of resources exacerbated by climate change have become dominant drivers of conflict.^{1,2}
